Heaven Forfend! Newt Gingrich is again investing in what he calls "thinking," or in this case, "re-thinking," his apparently erstwhile neoconservative beliefs in, euphemistically speaking, "exporting democracy" via missiles, drones, Chickenhawks, military hellfire, and slaughter of the civilians one had hoped to render more democracy-friendly.

One can feel the depth of Gingo's noodling with his semi-pseudo-first draft-conclusion:

> It may be that our capacity to export democracy is a lot more limited than we thought.

It may be, he ponders. The world awaits Mr. Gingrich's further clarifying emanations and excretions . . .
