Who Says Times Are Bad? Cheer Up! Donald Trump Exploring 2016 Prez Run!

Author : michaelbloomer

[caption id="attachment_6020" align="alignleft" width="300"]

'I will be my own Cabinet.'[/caption]

Everybody tells me,

"Please run for president. Please run for president."
I would be much happier if a great and competent person came along.

Donald Trump
humbugging last week to a record crowd of 2,300
at the Oakland County Republican Party
Lincoln Day Dinner in Novi, Michigan

And it's not even my birthday!! The New York Post reported today that

"Donald Trump has spent more than $1 million on electoral research for a potential presidential run in 2016. . . Michael Cohen, executive vice president and special counsel to Trump, told us they commissioned the $1 million in research into Trump's standing in each state, and to gauge those he would need to win over.

'The electoral research was commissioned. We did not spend $1 million on this research for it just to sit on my bookshelf,' Cohen said. 'At this point Mr.. Trump has not made any decision on a political run. . .'" [See entire story]

Uh huh. Sure. Nonetheless, just last week, Mr. Trump reported, Everybody tells me, "Please run for president. Please run for president."

What a gift. Not for the country, everyone knows that; but me? I'm smiling.